

CLIENT FEEDBACK [1]

Rosemary compares with the best from an international perspective. She is non-confrontational but challenging. Confidentiality is her strong suit. What is said never appears anywhere else. She added a lot of value for us.

Geoff Garrett, formerly CEO, CSIRO who engaged Rosemary over a five year period to work with the CSIRO executive team and to coach the CEO and individual executives.

Rosemary does an outstanding job. She has no hidden agendas or conflicts. She is understated and tells it as it is. She is not looking for glory. She provides an objective, insightful look at individual directors and the board dynamics as a whole. Rosemary has awareness and sensitivity to your concerns. She maintains boardroom collegiality and improves performance. The directors' dignity is preserved while they are alerted to others' views about them.

Maurice Newman who has worked with Rosemary in 2006 and in 2009-10.

Rosemary is very professional with a warm engaging style. With the Chair she instils confidence, is pragmatic, completely confidential and sympathetic in handling delicate issues. Her manner is very effective as she has a keen understanding of different perspectives and behavioural issues.

Rick Allert who has worked with Rosemary from 2004 to 2010 when Chair of AXA APH Board and from 2003 to 2007 when Chair of Coles Myer Board.

Rosemary provides a unique blend of good corporate governance yet her approach is very practical. She adds value in terms of individual feedback which enables directors to perform at their optimal level over time. She is savvy to the political issues in a way that does not put people offside. She can tease things out without breaking confidences and is strong enough to ask the questions that should be asked.

Sandra McPhee, Non-Executive Director, who has worked with Rosemary at three top ASX 50 companies during the last six years.
